press release

13 May 2007

Nepal Peace Pagoda, South Bank Parklands, Brisbane

Queensland Heritage Week and ICOMOS International Museums Week 2007

<STARTS>

Mother's Day in Brisbane has also seen the launch of the National Trust of Queensland Queensland Heritage Week and the ICOMOS International Museums Week at the Nepal Peace Pagoda, South Bank Parklands, one of Brisbane City's most prestigious collected items from the successful hosting of the Expo.

A special PR activity for Foundation Expo '88 and The Friends of the Pagoda Association in the lead-up to the 20th Anniversary of World Expo '88 in 2008, the Nepal Peace Pagoda now re-captures the spirit of the Expo with the launch today of activities and displays that bring us back to the days of the Expo and prompt us to further investigate the Pagoda's rich Nepalese heritage.

An eight-day festival, commencing today, and concluding Sunday 20 May, Guided Tours of the Pagoda at 11am and 2pm; Activity Sheets that encourage exploration of the Pagoda's rich detailed stories; launch of the Brisbane World Expo '88 Network Guide May 2007 Edition 2.0, and Association Information Board; as well as the launch of the World Expo '88 Memorabilia Cabinet, the Festival launches at the Pagoda a range of activities and displays that become a permanent part of the Pagoda experience in Brisbane - as the countdown to the 20th Anniversary of Expo reaches 350 days to go.

One can now find information regarding the Foundation and Association's work at ease, and notices regarding upcoming activities and events, and, the Brisbane World Expo '88 Network Guide, once exclusively distributed during the 'Pagoda on Sundays' program, (Edition 2.0) is now available to any visitor to the Pagoda during Pagoda open-hours at its custom-made pamphlet holder - an excellent guide to Brisbane's chief World Expo '88 heritage, and nearby places to eat, drink, and be merry.

The Festival continues for another eight days.
